DESIGN ADAC

WHERE DESIGN IS PERSONAL

“

When creating a personal space for a client or myself, I always try to incorporate family heirlooms, art purchased from a trip abroad or favorite objects that one loves to collect. This is a glimpse of one's life journey and tells a story of who we are.

ROZANNE JACKSON | ROZANNE JACKSON INTERIORS

Collecting things you love...that is what makes an interior personal. Design is a passion. It is more than decoration; it is showing people how to live better, love their houses and create memories.

SUZANNE KASLER | SUZANNE KASLER INTERIORS

Whether it's a casual, relaxed second home or a sophisticated, chic city home, we personalize with art that speaks to the individual, with colors that evoke emotion, and with collected findings from travels...all customized to the lifestyle of the client.

MELANIE TURNER | MELANIE TURNER INTERIORS

I always tell clients it takes time for a house to evolve. My own home certainly has and over the years I've added to my interiors, layering the spaces and expanding my various collections. I want our clients' houses to tell their own life stories and be a reflection of their unique personalities. Just as we all patina with age so should our houses.

I find everyone has a distinctive style, even if they think they don't.

BETH WEBB | BETH WEBB INTERIORS

Madeline Stuart

Keynote Presentation | Go Behind-the-Scenes: The Restoration of an Art Deco Masterpiece

Award-winning, Los Angeles-based Interior Designer Madeline Stuart, gives a behind-the-scenes talk about the history and restoration of an iconic home in L.A., which will be featured in the May/June issue of VERANDA. The 1930 Art Deco masterpiece was built by famed Hollywood set designer Cedric Gibbons for his wife, actress Delores Del Rio. An 11-time Academy Award winner, Cedric is credited with imagining the sets for more than 1,000 films, many of which had an undeniable influence on residential interior design of the era, and for designing the famed Oscar statuette.

Following the presentation, join Peacock Alley for a meet-and-greet reception with Madeline Stuart while perusing their Spring 2016 Modern Heirloom Collection.

Peacock Alley, ADAC West | Suite A6

WEDNESDAY · APRIL 27

3:00 PM

Panel Discussion | *The Evolution of Luxury

Join Interior Designer Alexandra Champalimaud, handbag Designer Jada Loveless, and Author and VERANDA Contributing Editor Jennifer Boles of The Peak of Chic for a panel discussion chaired by Christopher Sharp, Co-founder of The Rug Company. Exploring the concept of luxury, the speakers share their thoughts and observations on today's so-called luxury market, whilst debating the definition of the word and its impact on consumer attitudes. Is the term 'luxury' just a marketing game? Is today's luxury about service and craft rather than glitz and glamour?

ADAC Presentation Room, First Floor Atrium

The Rug Company and Travis & Company invite you to a cocktail reception following the panel discussion.

Travis & Company, Suite 131

5:00 PM

Southeast Designers & Architect of the Year Finalists Celebration
