ADAC Tour with Amy Morris

Begin your week at DESIGN ADAC with a tour of the Center through the eyes of Amy Morris, the 2016 Southeast Residential Designer of the Year. Opening the doors to her own firm in 2005, she has quickly become known for creating spaces that are traditional but have an unexpected edge to them. They are complex in their composition, combining a range of textures and materials, with just the right details and statement pieces. Her rooms are, in a word, memorable. Join Amy as she tours several of the showrooms she relies on to create her award-winning body of work. The tour begins at BRADLEY, and is then followed by Paul +, R HUGHES, Jerry Pair, and Ainsworth-Noah.

In Pursuit of François Catroux Keynote Presentation | David Netto

The career of François Catroux is the great untold story in design, or rather, it was, until designer David Netto started a five-year personal quest to find out more about this important talent. David's presentation takes you on a journey from François' early life with Yves Saint Laurent in Morocco to his later life with Billy Baldwin in New York City. At each turn, David reveals how François developed into an innovative and prolific designer whose talent was so natural that historians almost didn't realize there was an unbelievable story just waiting to be told.

ADAC Presentation Room, First Floor Atrium

Ainsworth-Noah invites you to meet David Netto as he signs copies of his book, François Catroux, during a reception following the presentation.

Barry Dixon: Wallcovering Inspirations

If the history of wall decoration could be acknowledged and captured in a simple collection, designer Barry Dixon has achieved this in his first wallcoverings collection for Vervain. Hear a brief presentation about the inspiration behind this extraordinary, brave, and romantic collection and see the innovative printing techniques – laser and digital mixed with traditional hand-printing, flocking, and beading – used to create these remarkable designs including a large-scale, digitally printed, pastoral mural that spans more than 15 feet wide and nine feet tall.

ADAC Presentation Room, First Floor Atrium

Following the product presentation, you are invited to see the collection over cocktails with Barry.
