CLINTON SMITH, VICTORIA HAGAN & THOMAS A. KLIGERMAN SELECT 14 FINALISTS FOR ADAC'S 2018 SOUTHEAST DESIGNERS AND ARCHITECT OF THE YEAR AWARDS

ATLANTA – In anticipation of the 2018 Southeast Designers and Architect of the Year Awards, ADAC is proud to reveal this year's finalists. Entries represented eight states within ADAC's 10-state region, with firms located in Alabama, Florida, Georgia, Kentucky, North Carolina, South Carolina, Tennessee, and Virginia. This year's 14 finalists are recognized innovators that exemplify the highest level of talent in the categories of residential design, contract design, and architecture in the Southeast. Finalists were selected by a panel of three acclaimed judges including Editor in Chief of VERANDA Clinton Smith; interior designer Victoria Hagan, and architect Thomas A. Kligerman. Winners will be announced at a private gala on Thursday, April 26.

"This year all of the finalists' work beautifully integrate architecture and interiors to create spaces that are amazing experiences," said Katie Miner, General Manager of ADAC. "Each of them truly embodies the theme of this spring's DESIGN ADAC, "innovation of expression," and are energizing the world of design in the Southeast and beyond. Every year we're honored and excited to see more and more submissions coming in from top talent; we look forward to recognizing all of these incredibly talented firms and individuals at a reception that is open to all at ADAC on April 25th and at a private gala on April 26th."

"Year after year, the entries for the Southeast Designers and Architect of the Year Awards continue to inspire," said Clinton Smith, Editor in Chief of VERANDA magazine. "The buildings and interiors created by practitioners from the area have a profound influence on how we live and work today—not only in this region, but also in the entire country. As a judge, it's evident that the work being done in the southeast continues to raise the bar for the entire design community."

The 2018 Southeast Designers and Architect of the Year Awards coincides with ADAC's annual spring market week, DESIGN ADAC, which is co-sponsored by VERANDA and will take place April 24 – April 26. All are welcome to join ADAC, VERANDA, and Jim Thompson to meet and celebrate the 2018 finalists in Suite 304 at 4:00 p.m. on Wednesday, April 25.

About the 2018 Judges:

Clinton Smith, Editor in Chief of VERANDA

Clinton Smith is an award-winning journalist who has been covering the fields of interior design, style, architecture, travel, and other luxury lifestyle topics for more than 15 years. During his time at VERANDA, the magazine has become the ultimate sourcebook for those on a quest for the best, showcasing the finest in decorating, outdoor living, fine jewelry, flowers, and entertaining.

Victoria Hagan, Interior Designer

Victoria Hagan is an award-winning designer whose work reflects the New American Classic — a modern sense of luxury that is fresh, restrained and iconic. She has been celebrated for her intelligent integration of architecture and interior design. Based in New York City, her 26-person firm works on luxury residences throughout the country, providing a full range of interior design services, all bearing her signature classic American style.

Thomas A. Kligerman, Architect

Thomas A. Kligerman is a co-founder of Ike Kligerman Barkley, where the architecture and interior departments work throughout history and across styles, always seeking to synthesize the traditional and the contemporary. Thomas was raised in Connecticut and New Mexico, and spent years in France and England as a student. These experiences sparked his interest in the rich history of domestic architecture, gardens and landscapes.
