Showhouses: The Good, Bad & Ugly Panel Discussion

Hot off the heels of the Kips Bay Decorator Showhouse and Southern Style Now, designers Susan Ferrier and Jonathan Savage dish with Robert Leleux about the reality of designing for a showhouse. From the application process to room selection, budgeting and time management to marketing, social media and PR, a showhouse room is so much more than a room. It's the ultimate creative expression of a designer's vision, or is it? These designers tell you everything you need to know, and then some, with characteristic humor, wit, and charm.

ADAC: BEHIND THE WINDOWS

A Tribute to Mr. John C. Portman, Jr.

The 12th installation of ADAC: Behind the Windows celebrates the life of ADAC founder, Mr. John C. Portman, Jr., the internationally-recognized architect, real estate developer, entrepreneur, artist, and altruist. ADAC has created two vignettes dedicated to his legacy and to his commitment to the development and evolution of ADAC as a world-class design center.

Mr. Portman believed that architecture was created for, and exists to serve, life—to serve people—and he recognized that all people, wherever they live, are more alike than different. From San Francisco to New York, to Shanghai and Atlanta, Mr. Portman took people away from the congestion of urban life by creating spaces that are open and uplifting to the human spirit!
